Mr. Orval White, student at the Vancouver Normal School spent the holidays with his parents here.

The sale of fancy work and home cooking held in the Lutheran church parlors on Saturday night was a financial success, $38 being realized. A woollen quilt, which had been donated by Mrs. Nygaard and raffled brought in $17. The winner was baby Sylvia Westlin, nine-month old daughter of Mr. and Mrs. John Westlin.

Mr. and Mrs. H. Snetun have had as their guests Mrs. Snetun's sister, Mrs. McGee of Camrose, Alta., and Mrs. Peterson of Red Deer. Also week-end guests were Mr. and Mrs. Peterson of Everett, Wash.

Miss Grace Hurum spent Easter week with friends in Vancouver.

The monthly meeting of the Matsqui P.T.A. will be held in the public school on Friday afternoon.

Sunday guests of Mrs. E. Carlson were Mr. and Mrs. D. Opsal and son Jim, and Mr. and Mrs. R. Dudley and baby Sigrid Ann.

Mrs. P. C. Brown and Joan are spending a week with Mrs. Brown's mother, Mrs. E. Carlson.

Mrs. J. Hamilton, who has been living with her daughter in Vancouver, has returned to her home at Gifford.

Misses Rhoda Mailes and Elsie Fredrickson spent Good Friday on Grouse Mountain.

Guests of Mr. and Mrs. Hurum over Easter week-end were Mr. and Mrs. Saville and Miss Joyce Saville of Vancouver.

Mr. Ralph Kemprud spent the holidays with friends in Vancouver.

Mrs. Lunde, Miss Mary Lunde and Miss G. Anderson of Bellingham visited Mrs. A. Fore at the holiday.

Mrs. Ray Brown and Miss Dolores Brown were recent guests with relatives here.

For the next two weeks I will be away on my vacation and during that time no permanent waving will be done. During my absence Mrs. Doris Irene Kask will have care of the establishment.

BURNIER & DESMAZES

The meeting held on Thursday under the auspices of the Socialist Party of Canada was well attended. The speakers were Miss Helena Gutteridge of Vancouver and the C.C.F. candidate, Mr. J. Cameron of Haney.

Miss Winnie Simms of Vancouver is the guest of the Misses Marjorie and Christie DeVries.

Mrs. G. Matthews and son Cyril of Burnaby are the guests of Mrs. Matthew's parents, Mr. and Mrs. E. A. Farr.

Mrs. Tom Smith entertained at afternoon tea in honor of her daughter Hazel.

Mr. Alastair McDougall is spending a few days visiting friends in Vancouver.

Mr. Munday has purchased a new car.

Miss Audrey Mailes and Mr. Howard Rottluff were the guests of honor at a social evening and shower held in Ridgedale community hall on Thursday evening. Many useful and pretty gifts were presented to the honored guests, whose marriage takes place in May.

Miss Helena Gutteridge of Vancouver was the guest of Mr. and Mrs. J. Little last week.

Mr. and Mrs. E. Sward, Seattle; Mr. and Mrs. E. Lofdahl and Mr. J. M. and Mrs. A. Sward, Lynden; Mrs. A. Goodrich, Mt. Vernon; Mr. Sward of Ferndale were the week-end guests of Mr. and Mrs. Carl Sward.

Mrs. A. Fore and Miss Olga Fore visited in Vancouver over the week-end.

Miss Eva Carlson spent the Easter week-end on Grouse Mountain.

Miss Jean McCulloch, who recently graduated from the Royal Columbian hospital, is spending some time with her parents at Clayburn.

Mrs. Hamilton is spending some time as the guest of her daughter, Mrs. O. Sorenson.

Arbitration board upon Matsqui's school estimates has cut the amount down to $14,359, a reduction of $19,251 from the original estimates of $33,610. The board ruled against an item of $500 for a school nurse, and pruned items of transportation, light, fuel, general school supplies and repairs. T. S. Annandale and Harry G. Johnston, appointees of the Council found in favor of a $19,251 reduction, while the School Board appointee, George A. Grant, filed a minority report limiting the reduction to $1,000.

League Against War and Fascism
Editor News:
In reply to the letters of Mr. Nicholson and Mr. Mitchell re war propaganda, I would like to point out that there is an organization known as "The League against War and Fascism" which has a branch with a large membership at Mission. The League is non-political and non-sectarian, and there is no membership fee. Any person wishing to join may do so, by getting in touch with Mr. Wes. Watson, secretary of the Mission branch of the League against War and Fascism, Mission City, who, I am sure, will be pleased to give any enquirer full particulars.

Those of us who had experience of, and suffered by, the last war, know too well how futile war is. I noted with interest the account of Mrs. Gertrude Thompson.

ROLPH BURY
Stricken ill while working in a logging camp at Harrison Lake about two weeks ago, Rolph Bury, aged 23 years, passed away on Saturday at his home near Abbotsford. Pneumonia was cause of death.

Deceased young man, who was born in Alberta, came to reside in this district with his parents about ten years ago. He attended the Abbotsford public school and since then had worked in and around the district. His unassuming manner and good nature won for him a host of friends who will greatly regret his early demise.

Last rites take place this afternoon from the Trinity United church to Hazelwood cemetery, Henderson parlor having care of arrangements. The pall-bearers, school chums of the deceased, are: Melville Spaulding, Willis Spaulding, Charles Baldwin, Ray Green, Arthur Blackham, Fred Mander.

MRS. E. NASCOU

Mrs. Ed. Nascou, 74, a pioneer resident of the Fraser Valley, passed away at her home in Aldergrove, where she had lived for 40 years. Deceased was born in Denmark, and is survived by three sons: May, Vancouver; Carl, Garrett, B.C.; Harry, Aldergrove; also by four daughters: Mrs. C. B. Ingraham, Squamish; Mrs. W. Silvertown, Aldergrove; Mrs. E. Ewing, Vancouver; Mrs. P. Chevalley, Abbotsford.

The funeral was held yesterday in Aldergrove.

Downie's difficulty in canvassing the munitions area. I presume she means "Woolwich Arsenal" area. The Arsenal at present employs over 20,000 workers, and there are 146,000 people living in the neighborhood of the Arsenal—no wonder she found the "going hard".

For those, and there are many, who do not realize the horror, degradation and futility of war, I would suggest they read a book by Charles Yale Harrison, entitled "Generals Die in Bed". If it cannot be procured at the local library, I have it, and shall be pleased to lend it to anyone wishing to read it. Especially mothers with sons of conscripting age. It may possibly be classed by some as raw, vulgar and indecent, but it depicts the life of a recruit, in all its crudeness and obscenity, and it is all endured under a spirit of so-called Patriotism.

Independents Defy Pooling Regulations of "Milk Act"

A legal "show-down" upon the Milk Act is in immediate prospect unless some compromise is effected. Independent fluid milk shipments went to the various city dairies yesterday as usual, indicating that many dairymen will stand by their resolution passed at a recent meeting in Abbotsford, defying the Milk Act.

At this meeting, attended by some 70 milk producers, resolution was adopted absolutely refusing to pool the surplus milk. Mr. Basil Gardom, of Dewdney, the chairman, reported the willingness of independents in his district to stand by any decision made at the Abbotsford meeting.

In the meantime, uneasy over the dilatory application of Milk Act regulations, Chilliwack Board of Trade has called upon Hon. Mr. McDonald, provincial minister of agriculture, to implement immediately the pooling regulations.

Current butter-fat prices in the Association approximate 41c per pound ("A" and "B" barns), while independents state they are receiving from 38c to 45c.

PIONEER SUMAS COUPLE MOVING TO ROYAL CITY

Mr. and Mrs. W. R. Fadden, pioneer residents of Sumas Prairie, are moving to New Westminster to reside today. The farm will be carried on by their son Winfred. A wide circle of friends wish them contentment in the city, where they have previously resided.

Abbotsford soccer team will meet the Viking team of Vancouver on Sunday next. Abbotsford expect to field practically the same eleven that defeated the Macabees so decisively two weeks ago. The Vikings are a strong team, and expect to go far in the Dominion soccer play-offs soon taking place, so the game will be a good one to see.

A Queer Combination

Six Blind Musicians Will Play For Deaf Dancers

Six blind musicians in England can also thank the wireless for allowing them to form their own orchestra. By listening in to different broadcasts, they memorized various pieces by memory, being the only way in which they could learn the music, of course. Next month they are to play at a dance in Leeds Town Hall. The dancers will all be deaf mutes who have had to use their eyesight to learn the steps, not being able to hear their instructor. They are taught by watching the steps of couples who are normal. On the face of it this queer combination of dancers and musicians may appear pathetic. But is it not rather triumphant—that handicaps are not insurmountable? The musicians will not see the dancers, the dancers will not hear the musicians... but the spirit is there!

YOUR HANDWRITING REVEALS YOUR CHARACTER!

By LAWRENCE HIBBERT
(Grapho-Analyst)
(All Rights Reserved)

Mrs. L. R. writes as follows: "I am a widow with two children, and have been corresponding with a man from the West. He wishes to marry me, and although I have never seen him, his letters are so pleasant that I find myself drawn to him. He is married, but has not lived with his wife for some years, and offers to get a divorce if I accept his offer of marriage. I feel that I should remarry, because I am still young, but I naturally don't want to make a mistake. My first marriage was very happy, and my husband left me a substantial sum of money. Any help you care to give me will be welcome."

I am sorry that I cannot be over-optimistic about your chances of making a really favourable marriage with this man, Mrs. R. He is not generous—he is, as a matter of fact, of rather a narrow point of view; not really broadminded.

He is likely to get very irritable, if not bad-tempered, and whilst a lot of us have this little trait at times, allied as it is in this case with narrowness of mind, it shows that this man is not easy to live with.

He is rather changeable, too. He will be inconsistent, not at all stable, temperamental, but fickle in his moods. It would be difficult to understand him at times.

Another characteristic that stands out in this man's vanity. He expresses this in one of his letters to you when he remarks on the number of lady friends that he has had, and whilst he is endeavouring to convey a subtle compliment to you, in that he prefers you to all the others, this also shows conceit. And his handwriting bears this out very clearly.

I mentioned that he is not very generous. I would go further and say that he is economical and cautious to the point of parsimony.

As regards yourself, your writing shows that you have a rather emotional nature, you are quick to feel joys and sorrows, and possess a marked capacity for affection. Yours is essentially a nature that needs company. There is nothing of the cold or aloof type about you. You are ardent, lovable, spontaneous—like lots of fun, and have a liking for being "on the go".

You are still young, and I certainly agree with you that marriage would be an excellent thing for you—provided that you get the right sort of partner. Your previous happy choice has given you a standard that it may not be easy to parallel. But I have no doubt that the opportunity will again arise. In the meantime, I am sorry that I cannot advise you to accept the man whose writing you sent to me, without, at least, taking an opportunity of checking up my summing up of his character.

Would you like an analysis of your character? And have you any friends whose real natures you would like to know? Send specimens of the writing you wish to be analysed, stating birthdate in each case, and enclose 10c coin for each specimen. Send with 3c stamped addressed envelope, to: Lawrence Hibbert, Graphologist, care of Winnipeg Newspaper Union, 175 McDermot Ave., Winnipeg, Man. Letters are confidential and replies will be sent as quickly as possible.

Would Make Gold Cheap

Polish Scientist With Secret Z-Ray Claims New Extraction Process

What would happen if Professor Dunikowsky, the Polish scientist, should prove his claim that by his secret Z-ray process he can extract from auriferous earth eight times more gold than is possible by the methods hitherto employed?

Authorities in Paris admit that it would mean the conversion of the precious metal into a base one, perhaps of no greater value than lead.

But the same authorities ridicule such a possibility, despite the report of M. Bonn, expert in chemistry to the Paris courts. After testing Dunikowsky's apparatus at San Remo, Italy, he says it is unquestionable that it permits the extraction of much larger quantities of gold than any other known process.

Maitre Jean Charles Legrande, the Paris lawyer, stated that he intends to demand a retrial of the case in which the Paris court sentenced Dunikowsky to two years' imprisonment for fraud.

Why He Was Excited

British Tommy Dropped Ham Sandwich Into Ballot Box

A friend of mine who was playing an official part in the management of the Saar plebiscite tells me of one incident which every student of International government will wish preserved. British soldiers were carrying the carefully sealed ballot boxes into the room where the counting was to be done.

At one of the tables a Dutchman was heard in voluble dispute with a British Tommy. The Dutchman, who talked English, was perplexed and annoyed because he could not understand a word the Tommy said. My friend went to the rescue, but was quite unable to act as interpreter. The Tommy's Yorkshire was too broad.

A sergeant who knew him was called in to help. He explained that Yorkshire was sometimes like that when talked by men who were drunk or excited. It turned out that the Tommy had quite good reason for being excited. He had dropped his ham sandwich into the ballot box.

To retrieve the sandwich meant specially opening the ballot box before the proper witnesses and with due formalities. When various protocols had been filled up and the proper officials had signed the necessary documents, the box was solemnly opened, the sandwich retrieved, and an international incident closed in perfect amity.—New Statesman and Nation.

Historic Chapel Reopened

Forlorn Corner Of Sheffield Cathedral Has Been Restored

South Yorkshiremen the world over will hear with interest of the reopening by Dr. Leonard Burrows, Bishop of Sheffield, of the historic Shrewsbury chapel within Sheffield cathedral.

It is more than four centuries since what was then the old parish church of the city of cutlery lost that portion of the building known as "Our Lady's Aisle and Her Chapel."

In the centuries which have since passed, the chapel has remained, until now, merely a forlorn corner of the church, and was noted only as a burial place of long-forgotten members of the family of which the Zaris of Shrewsbury were the head.

The chapel has now been suitably restored and decorated. The north choir aisle and the Rowley Hill chapel have likewise been restored. The organ is being moved to the west end of the cathedral and this will enable the chancel to return to the dimensions originally planned by its mediaeval builders.

New Aid For Blind

"Electric Eye" Enables Them To Read Ordinary Print

An announcement says Prof. A. G. Goldman of the Soviet Ukraine had invented an "electric eye" by means of which the blind with their fingers would be able to read ordinary printed books.

An apparatus equipped with lenses, moves over print and projects images of letters onto a photo-electric cell, he explained. The cell changes the images into electric impulses which cause vibrations on a special desk designed for this purpose.

Istanbul Solves Problem

Pedestrians And Vehicles Have Been Assigned Different Streets

Pedestrians of Istanbul, Turkey, have been assigned streets for their exclusive use while automobiles and horse-drawn vehicles have been given sole rights on others. One-way streets also are being tried. Traffic lights were used for awhile and rejected. The city has a real traffic problem in the congestion of its narrow and winding lanes.

Little Journeys In Science

GASOLINE

(By Gordon H. Guest, M.A.)

Gasoline consists of a mixture of liquid compounds known as hydrocarbons. The use of gasoline as a source of power in engines is due to the fact that the gasoline is easily changed to a vapour and that a mixture of gasoline vapour and air, when ignited, burns instantaneously, or, as commonly expressed, explodes. The mixture of gasoline vapour and air is led into the cylinder of the engine where it is ignited by an electric spark.

The "ethyl gasoline" which is now used so widely, is gasoline to which has been added a small amount of two colorless liquid compounds known as lead tetraethyl and ethylene bromide. The lead tetraethyl prevents the "knocking" of the engine when the engine is under high pressure; the reason for this is as yet not known with certainty. The use of the lead compound alone causes lead to be set free during the reaction, and as a result the ignition points of the spark plugs become clogged. When ethylene bromide is added, the lead combines with the bromine which is present in the bromide, producing the volatile lead bromide which escapes in the exhaust.

In former days kerosene was the most important product obtained from crude oil. To-day, however, gasoline is by far the most valuable of these products and hence science has put forth every effort to increase the yield. This is done by distilling kerosene and similar oils at high temperatures under pressure. This process is known as the "cracking" of oils. The average crude oil from the large producing areas of Texas and Oklahoma contains about 30% gasoline. Modern improvements in the cracking process have enabled oil refiners to increase the gasoline yield to 70% of the crude oil or higher, depending on the nature and quality of the gasoline which is desired.

Recent experiments have shown that the gas hydrogen under high pressure changes powdered coal suspended in hot oil into lubricating oils, gasoline, and similar products. When the supply of petroleum becomes exhausted this process may supply man with these products so necessary to our modern civilization.

Wilkins To Build Sub-Ice Boat For Arctic Voyage

Undaunted by failure in 1931 to penetrate the Arctic by submarine, bearded Sir Hubert Wilkins said he was ready to begin construction of a special sub-ice craft for another attempt.

Arriving at Miami, Florida, from Lima, Peru, by Pan American Airways, Sir Hubert said the proposed undersea boat would be "very simple."

"The adventure of the Nautilus taught me," he said, "to leave off everything that was not absolutely necessary."

China Buys Old Tires

The Chinese market is beginning to absorb immense quantities of old worn-out automobile tires bought up in the United States market. One steamer recently took 100 pressed bundles of old tires, averaging 20 to each bundle to Shanghai. These are largely used as soles for sandals worn by coolies and peasants.

SYNOPSIS

"You've fallen heir to a half-share in plenty of trouble," the lawyer told Gerald Keene. "The Broken Spur has been systematically looting the ranch, and old Joe Carr, your partner, is drinking himself into ruin."

Dad Kane, desert rat and luckless prospector till now returns to tell Dustin and Spike Goddard, who had grubstaked him, of his discovery of a rich gold mine, and shows samples of the ore.

Dustin unexpectedly comes along while Stone and Edith are riding fence, and seeing them, stops and talks to Edith. He mentions their dispute could be settled by marrying him, and Edith refuses his proposal with remarks that make Dustin furious. He insults Stone, who promptly throws him into a pool of water.

Dustin learns that Gerald Keene has been sent for, and also that Duro Stone has seen the Broken Spur men rustling Carr's cattle. He sets out with Dad Kane to learn the location of his gold discovery. Dad Kane shows Dustin the mine.

They go back to camp, and Dustin shoots Kane. He fixes the shooting on Peyotl Gregg, a drug addict, who, stupefied by the narcotic he had taken, did not know whether he was guilty or not. They bury Kane and then return to the Broken Spur ranch.

Meanwhile at the Hour Glass, Carr, Crewe and Stone speculate as to the meaning of entries in the notebook belonging to Dad Kane that Stone had found. Stone thinks of a possible solution, and, accompanied by Edith Carr, rides out to Red Water to test out his theory, which proves correct, and they find the rich gold deposit mentioned in the prospector's notebook. As they return to the ranch, they meet Dustin leaving the house, who purposely, but unsuccessfully tries to ride down Stone.

Sam Dustin, the day before Gerald Keene's arrival in Seco, cunningly suggests to Peyotl Gregg that Keene or Kane was a relative of the old prospector, and was seeking information as to the old man's whereabouts. If Peyotl wanted to live, and prevent finding out about the murder, Gregg should shoot Keene when he arrived.

(Now Go On With The Story)

Even Dustin grinned at the thought of the old ranchman, once the Nestor of Seco Valley, being searched for a gun in a murder case.

Garcy was laughing frankly as he thrust a big hand into the side-pocket of Joe Carr's coat. But that grin suddenly froze on his face as he drew from the pocket a wadded mass of green-and-yellow silk. He seized it by one dirty corner and shook it out and all the watchers started back as a short heavy Derringer pistol clattered to the floor.

Garcy's eyes bulged and Crewe's face changed. Carr, grown suddenly old and grave, stared at the pistol as Garcy reached for it but Stone was too quick for him. He quickly retrieved the weapon and examined it carefully and a silence fell that Dustin broke.

"I reckon this clears me of all suspicion," he snarled. "When the Hour-glass gets to shootin' their own partners they're droppin' pretty damned low."

Garcy turned sharply on him: "You're cleared, Dustin," he said. "But I'm givin' you a word of advice. Say nothin' of this here till I tell you. If any word gets out, I'll know who told it. He'll have me to reckon with. Get me?"

Dustin looked at him queerly and a chilly feeling ran up his back. He did not fear many men but he had a most healthy regard for old Jim Garcy.

"Good Lord," he snapped: "I'm not interested in Hour-Glass killin' off Hour-Glass. It's rat eat rat as far as I'm concerned. I'll say not a word about it."

The door slammed behind him and Garcy turned to old Carr.

"Listen now, Joe. . . ." His voice had grown suddenly old and tired for he had been fond of Joe for more than a generation. "You got some explainin' to do, Joe. Where'd you git that Derringer?"

"I never had a Derringer in my life," said Carr dully. "I ain't got one now."

Garcy quietly "broke" the pistol. One barrel had been fired, in the other a loaded cartridge nestled and the lower barrel was foul from the explosion. He extracted the empty shell and fitted to it the big lead bullet that Epps quietly handed him. It fitted. Still Carr stared at him. Then Stone took the pistol from Garcy's hand and examined it. Crew's face was a study. He could not disbelieve the evidence of his own eyes; yet . . . He knew old Joe Carr and loved him.

"I think we're barkin' at a knot, Sheriff," said Stone quietly. Garcy turned on him. "When I need a tenderfoot to tell me my business, I'll call you," he said acidly. "What you got that's new?"

"A little bit of brains," said Stone. "You can see for yourself that the man's shot on the right side . . . Just above the liver. Every one in this room knows that he was standin' on Mr. Carr's right. Did Carr reach clear around the man and shoot right toward himself?"

Epps and Crewe both nodded and Garcy looked puzzled. "Are you sure Carr was standin' as you say?" he asked.

"Absolutely certain."

"Here," said Epps quickly: "We can't wait till you solve this case before we treat the man. I want some one to help him over to my house. I'll take care of him till you can get a regular doctor."

"One minute . . ." Garcy turned to Carr. . . . "Joe," he said gently: "God knows I don't like to arrest you but I've got to. The evidence is too strong against you. If you give me your word of honor not to make any break, I'll take you over to my house as a guest till we can find out what's to be done. If this man dies, it'll be a charge of murder I suppose. You say his name's Keene?"

"Yes. Gerald Keene," said Crewe. "He and Joe own the Hour-Glass together. That's the best thing to do, Jim. You take care of Joe. I'll get out to the Hour-Glass. I'm afraid it'll take some explainin' to make Edith understand."

With Logan's help they got the wounded man over to Epp's house and a woman was secured to act as a nurse and Crewe drew Stone aside.

"You better stop here to-night, I reckon," he said. "What is it?" he said sharply for Stone was tugging at his pocket.

"I was goin' to say that I'd better stay in here," said Stone. "I've got a clew I want to look into, Crewe . . . old man Carr never shot that man. . . ." He drew from his pocket the green-and-yellow bandanna. "You can't tell one Derringer from another," he said: "But wearing apparel is different. Did you ever know any man wear a damnable thing like this? It's got three bullet-holes in it so there's no doubt about what took place. The would-be murderer had the gun wrapped in this and he fired through it. That's why we didn't see any sparks. Did you ever see any one wearing a thing like this?"

Crew shook his head. Things were moving too fast for him.

"I never did," he said. "Well . . . I just got to get back to the Hour-Glass. Look out for young Keene and old Joe, will you, Stone?"

Stone promised and Crewe started the car down the street. The moment darkness hid the car, Stone hunted up Epps and almost by force dragged him into his office.

Neither man ever told what took place in that office but in a half-hour Stone emerged triumphant and headed down the street for the little office where Jameson held forth. That gentleman, bending over a form-case, was snatched to a stool and an evil-smelling mass of green-and-yellow silk was thrust under his nose.

"What's that smell like?" demanded Stone sharply.

Jameson, who had been writing a hasty account of the shooting, sniffed and spat.

"Peyotl," he said. "Why?" "That's what struck me," said Stone. "Can you possibly be mistaken?"

"Good Lord, no. It's peyotl all right. Where'd you get it?"

"Ever see any one wearing a thing like that?"

"I never did . . . Look here, Stone . . . what're you driving at?" Stone told him in well-chosen words and few and Jameson took fire at the recital.

"It looks to me as though you've got a solid morsel to chew on," he said finally. "I only know one man who can be said to regularly use that infernal stuff. That's the man Peyotl Gregg out at the Broken Spur. I'll see if I can find him. They'd probably shoot you if you went out there. See me first thing in the mornin'. I may have news for you."

CHAPTER XVI.

Sam Dustin headed for the Broken Spur half drunk with liquor and success. Even in his most hopeful moments he could never have hoped that Peyotl Gregg, having killed Gerald Keene, would place the blame for that killing on Joe Carr. Joe, of all men!

"The only man who could have had a motive," he chuckled. "If Keene dies, Carr gets his half of the Hour-Glass. I'll take it away from Carr and have the ranch and the mine too . . . And the girl . . . Wait!" A sudden illuminating thought came to him and he slapped his leg hard. "By God," he said. "I've got it and I've got the girl . . . But it's pretty hard on Peyotl. First of all I've got to find out if the man Keene will die."

He flung out of the car and almost leaped into the house. Spike Goddard was flung aside roughly as Dustin jerked the telephone from its hook.

"What're you callin' Doc Epps for?" demanded Spike.

Dustin waved him into silence and Epps voice came tinnily across the wire. Goddard could hear it plainly.

"Oh. Dustin at the Broken Spur. Huh? Yes . . . This is Doctor Epps . . . What? . . . Oh . . . I get you . . . Yeah . . . I know who you mean. I brought him over to my house . . . Gerald Keene, of course . . . The partner of old man Carr at the Hour-Glass . . . You are interested, huh? Well, I'll tell you, Dustin. He died not ten minutes ago. . . ." Epps' voiced sounded strained and uncertain but there was no mistaking the words. "The coroner'll be in to-morrow. It looks like a hemp neck-tie for old man Carr."

Spike Goddard heard it all and stood staring at his partner as he flung up the receiver.

"What the hell has happened, Sam?" he demanded.

He considered Dustin in silence while Dustin told him all that had occurred. Finally:

"Look out you don't trip," he said curtly. "There was a man once who held all thirteen trumps but lost the game. . . ."

"How could that be, you poor fool?" demanded Dustin.

For answer Spike grinned at him. "It was old-fashioned Whist," he said. "One man held all thirteen trumps. It was his partner's lead. He led an ace and when his partner trumped it he got mad and shot him. The jury said it was justifiable homicide . . . Mind you haven't bit off too much to chew."

"You fool. . . ." Dustin grabbed him by the arm. "Don't you see it yet? Peyotl Gregg shot this man Keene and planted the pistol on old Joe Carr . . . Joe, who inherits the Hour-glass by the death of Keene. We've got Carr's note and we alone know of old Kane's mine . . ."

"Nobody knows Peyotl killed him," said Spike. "I do. Old man Carr'll be held for the murder. He'll hang unless they find out about Peyotl. Don't you reckon Edith Carr'll marry me to get her father clear?"

THE NEWSBOY

He cries his papers briskly
Each day and all the day;
I wonder how the newsboy
Can always keep so gay?

It's "Here's your morning paper!"
And: "Read the news!" at noon,
And: "Get the last edition!"
Each to a merry tune.
The newsboy never grumbles
At wind or rain or sleet,
For he can bring some sunshine
Along the bleakest street.

His youth, his cheer, his courage
Would make old Midas glad
To trade his gold for boyhood
And join the happy lad.

It's: "Extra! Extra! Extra!"
He knows life, bad and good;
But every face grows brighter
To meet his merry mood.

Little Helps For This Week

Be not slothful, but followers of them who through faith and patience inherit the promises. Hebrews 6:12.

Where now with pain thou treadest, trod
The whitest of the saints of God;
To show thee where their feet were set,
The light which led them shineth yet.

Let us learn from the communion of saints to live in hope. Those who are now at rest were once like ourselves. They were weak, faulty, sinful; they had their burdens and hindrances, their weariness, their failures and falls. But now they have overcome. Their life was once homely and commonplace as ours, and morning, noon and night went to them as to us. Little fretful circumstances and frequent disturbing changes wasted away their hours as yours. There is nothing in your life that was not in theirs, there was nothing in theirs that may not be also in yours. They have overcome each one, and one by one, each in his turn when the day came, and God called him to the trial. And so shall you likewise.—H. E. Manning.

Drawing Large Crowds

Moscow's De Luxe Food Store Proves Great Attraction

Sixty thousand visitors are passing daily through Eliseaev's mammoth de luxe food store at Moscow which was opened recently by Gastronomie, the state food trust. Delicacies of all sorts are offered for paper rubles in this gigantic establishment which occupies the same building once used in Czaristic days for a similar food shop. It is a greater attraction to the general public than any theatrical or motion-picture opening, and is crowded until it closes at midnight. Militiamen keep the throngs moving so that persons waiting in the street may have a chance to inspect the food display. Seventy-five types of bread are advertised by Eliseaev's, and the room containing the bread is probably the most crowded in the store. Cooked food also is offered, a new feature for food shops in Bolshevik Russia.

Bombay To Mark Jubilee

Services Will Be Held In All Places Of Worship

The celebrations in Bombay of the King's Silver Jubilee are to last nearly two weeks, during which time all public buildings will be floodlit or otherwise illuminated. There will be combined military and naval displays on the lines of Navy Week in England. Other attractions will include fireworks displays, Scout parades, sports meetings, the distribution of alms to the poor and sweets to the children.

A thanksgiving service will be held at St. Thomas's Cathedral, at which the Governor of Bombay, Lord Bra-bourne, will be present. Similar services are to be held by Roman Catholics in their cathedral, by Hindus, Mohammedans, Parsees and other communities in their respective places of worship.

When Is Middle Age?

English Judge Thinks It Might Be Around Sixty

What is middle age? The question was asked by Lord Hewart, the Lord Chief Justice, at the Sussex Assizes when the counsel in a case before the court referred to a certain man as "middle-aged."

"Can you tell me what is middle age?" His Lordship asked. "Isn't it always a little further on than the man who is speaking has got?" He asked the age of the man in question. "Forty-one," replied counsel. "A mere child," retorted the Lord Chief Justice, who himself is 65. "Don't call him middle-aged for another 20 years."

MCKENZIE RD. POWER LINE REBUILT FOR EMERGENCY USE

Reconstruction of the McKenzie road high-power transmission line of the B. C. Electric Railway Co. was practically completed last week, and line crews are checking the insulators for leakage this week, while a 60,000 volt service is "cut-in" for Lynden.

Other than for temporary service to communities upon the U. S. side of the border, the new line, which entailed erection of three miles of new poles from Abbotsford to the boundary, the McKenzie road line is to be kept in sound condition for emergency service. In event of a breakdown through storms or other causes either in U.S. or Canadian territory, this line will be requisitioned in a hope to avoid disastrous power tie-ups such as occurred last winter.

In the meantime during the temporary service to Lynden, users of radio sets along McKenzie road are unable to tune in stations because of the high-tension roar from the high-voltage lines. As the B. C. E. R. Co. is also a retailer of radios, it is interested in clarifying reception insofar as interference from their lines is concerned. A complaint to Mr. E. Webster about this class of interference will be given immediate attention, and a check-up of the source instituted, with a view to remedy, if possible.

Asks For "New Deal" For Local Churches

"Will you not take the matter of publicly worshipping your Creator, at least as seriously as these other and infinitely less vital matters, legitimate though these other things may be in themselves" writes a local minister of the Gospel to his parishioners.

A pertinent question which will touch the conscience of many of us. "After all, I imagine other engagements had to 'go by the board' on the nights when our church people turned out in such large numbers to see the 'Bengal Lancers' comments the minister.

The letter is a plea, not merely for financial sustenance (this clergyman, qualified, capable, earnest, is paid a stipend of $50 monthly—which is in arrears), but for adequate public recognition of the spiritual and practical work of the Church—of all churches.

For, no matter the denomination, avenue, the goal of spiritual worship is the same.

This is not Soviet Russia—we are not ready to revert to paganism—we need yet, even in this so-called modern age—some sort of "spiritual" expression and comfort.

A score of religious denominations offer their inspirational affiliation in this rural district, each with a loyal, but unfortunately too small, following. Can it be honestly stated that any one of them is unnecessary, that we should not suffer a very real loss if one "fell under"? Yet when ministers of the gospel are forced into marketing farm commodities in order to sustain themselves, and do not receive even to the full their meagre stipend it is any surprise that they become discouraged, cannot give their courageous best to a great but difficult cause?

Whatever may be said to the contrary, our churches remain yet the bulwarks of our civilization, of our better social life. And if regarded from merely a selfish materialistic viewpoint, our churches merit the utmost support of every citizen.

Insurance Act Criticizes Proposed Health

The Peace River Block News has gone to a great deal of trouble to analyse the new health insurance measure which Victoria is planning to bring down. The editorial reads: "The draft bill giving a plan for health insurance in British Columbia has been made public.

Health insurance and all the other social legislation which is being carried through, presumably for the benefit of the worker may be good politics but is it not the time to stop and count the cost before the wage earner in the lower paid class discovers that he is paying so much for "social service" that his standard of living is greatly reduced and his later state is worse than his first.

There are many workers in B. C. today whose wages do not exceed $60.00 per month. If any need help, it is these, but what do we find? A new health insurance planned for their own benefit at their own expense. True, they only pay 3 per cent of their wages towards it, but the firm employing them has to pay 2 per cent. Many of these employees are not in a position to do this except by decreasing their wages by a like amount or increasing the cost of their products.

In the face of keen competition from other provinces, and also with this province, it will be difficult to sell goods at an increased price when purchasing power is reduced. It can safely be assumed that the wage earner will be 5 per cent worse off at least. That reduces his pay envelope to $57.00 per month. The minister of education also suggests another tax of 2 per cent for school purposes. Again the wages are reduced this time by $1.20 per month bringing them down to $55.80.

In case the worker should get out of work, the Dominion Government has enacted unemployment insurance. This costs the adult worker 25c per week and his employer an additional 25c per week. Again wages are reduced this time to $53.65. Compensation Board payments of a cent a day reduces it again 30c per month, bringing the original $60.00 to $53.35. This is approximately 11 per cent reduction in wages, amounting to $80.00 per year.

These are direct taxes for social and educational services. Add to this the 6 per cent sales tax, 1 per cent sugar tax, customs tariff, municipal tax and often a poll tax in some form or other and what is actually left to put back in the natural course of trade?

Referring to the proposed Provincial Health Insurance Bill, who will benefit most? In a press summary issued by Dr. Weir, he states:

"If the insurance plan were in operation, it is contended that the hospital grants, aid to resident physicians, and relief medical services which cost the province about $1,043,000 during the current fiscal year. Through savings from this source, it is contended that the province could easily afford to contribute $960,000 per year to the insurance expenditure on health at all. The memorandum argues further that the insurance plan would relieve municipalities of health and hospital charges to the extent of several hundred thousand dollars yearly."

Detailed figures are given to show the inadequate medical care now being received by the people of British Columbia. In spite of this there are many practitioners idle or unpaid for the work they do.

The province and the municipalities together, it is stated, are now paying for health service at the rate of $3,500,000 annually.

It looks like a plan to place the burden on the man with less than $200 per month and take it off the man with an adequate income. Instead of Health Insurance, it should be called "a bill to set up a collection agency for the medical profession."

You will notice it has the grace not to mention "socialization" of health services.

Miss Celeste Page has left for Pen-tion, where she has accepted a position on the staff of the public school there.

At the weekly meeting of the Progressive Club, an Easter programme "From Gethsemane to Calvary" was presented. Young people from several of the churches and also the Glad Tidings Mission of Mission City assisted with the music.

Miss Jessie Duncan, who has just completed a year's study at Western Canada Bible School, Calgary, has resumed her work at the Ridgedale school.

The members of the Calf Club sponsored an old-time dance in the hall last Friday evening.

Miss Irene Kelleher of Brilliant, B.C., spent the Easter week-end with her parents Mr. and Mrs. C. Kelleher.

LOCAL BAND GIVES CONCERT

The Abbotsford Band, with the assistance of the Vancouver Juvenile Band presented their first public concert last Thursday evening, in the Abbotsford Theatre, before a large number of people. The local band, who played very well with only three months' practice, presented a serenade "Ferns and Flowers" and a waltz "Jasmine." During the intermission Mrs. Cott of Vancouver sang, and a trumpet duet was played by Murray Ralston and Sidney West. The financial proceeds of the event, amounting to $20, will be devoted to books for the band.

Duncan and Joseph McDonald have joined their parents at Greenwood, B.C.

Local Waters Being Stocked with Fish

Fish-planting operations of the B. C. Game Board in the Valley this spring include 1,500 Kamloops trout in the Mill Lake, Abbotsford. These young fish averaged three to four inches in length. Twenty-five hundred of the same species of trout were released in Sumas river.

The steelhead fisherman was not overlooked, for 12,000 young fish were released in the Vedder river, and 15,000 in the Coquitlam district. The fry average four to six inches in length.

Kamloops trout fry were also released in Davis Lake and McConnell Creek, Game Warden Williams reports.

Canada's Greatest Problem

The Canadian people are confronted with a gigantic problem. We say the Canadian people advisedly because, while governments, Federal, Provincial and Municipal are all struggling with it, the problem is one towards the solution of which individual citizens must make their contribution. The fact that it is a problem facing all other nations offers no consolation because the more acute and difficult it is in other lands only serves to make it more difficult in Canada.

The problem can be stated in two or three words,—unemployment and relief.

The unemployed man or woman wants work and the wages which work will bring to them. Failing work and wages, they must be provided by Governments with the necessities of life,—food, clothing, fuel and shelter.

Such necessities can, of course, only be provided by the State through the taxation of those other men and women who are employed, or still have some savings accumulated throughout the years of the past in order to make provision for their own future and old age. The only other way is for Governments to borrow money and add such borrowings to their public debts upon which interest must be paid through increased taxation, and the principal sum of which is passed on as a liability for future generations to meet.

So far as municipalities, with their small and limited sources of revenue, are concerned, many have reached the limit of what their taxpayers are able to pay in order to care for those who are unemployed. Further taxation simply means that more people will be unable to pay it, and, failing to do so, will lose what they still have and will, in turn, be forced "on relief". Faced with this situation, a largely attended conference of the mayors of the leading cities and towns of Canada unanimously declared the inability of the municipalities to any longer carry their share of the relief burden and called upon the Federal Government to assume it in its entirety.

On their part, the Provinces,—and more particularly the Western Provinces, which, in addition to the general and world-wide economic depression, have suffered more severely than other portions of the Dominion because of successive years of crop failures owing to the unprecedented drought conditions which have prevailed,—now find it impossible to raise, either by taxation or borrowings, the Provincial share of relief expenditures and at the same time assume the share of the municipalities.

It must be recognized, therefore,—the truth cannot be ignored,—that the problem is a national one, and one that most intimately concerns every Canadian citizen and every Canadian interest. This must now be accepted as a fact even though under the constitution of this country the responsibility of making provision for people in need is primarily a municipal responsibility. That is, the actual facts of the situation override all constitutional aspects.

Then, there is the other side of the picture. Tens of thousands of people who are "on relief" complain that the amounts allotted to them are inadequate to their needs and desires. They are insistent in their demands that relief allowances be substantially increased. They are organizing to enforce their demands, and all over the country communistic agitators are playing upon their distress and worries and arousing their passions and making demands which it is manifestly impossible for the remainder of the people to satisfy.

These agitators all loudly object to people on relief being asked to render any service whatever in return for the payments being regularly made to them. They insist that no person should be called upon by the municipality in which they reside to perform any work in return for the assistance extended to them. They refuse to recognize that, in effect, people are being paid what is tantamount to wages in advance, small though they may be, by their fellow citizens, and they declare that to ask relief recipients to render any service in return for such assistance is to make "slaves" of them.

Yet Canadians worthy of the name, and knowing their country's difficulties, should be grateful for what is being done in their behalf, and if there is any manhood left in them they should not only be ready and willing, but actually anxious, to make what return they can to their fellow citizens and their country. These agitators demand work,—not for themselves but for those they would make their dupes,—and when work in its usually accepted meaning cannot be provided but State assistance is extended, they then advocate refusal to work in exchange for such assistance, or even for a small fraction of it. Why? Because they are out to destroy the very institutions of government and the very people who are now providing the unemployed with the necessities of life.

Such is the major Canadian problem of to-day. It is one, let it be repeated and emphasized, that vitally affects every citizen. It is their problem; what are they going to do about it?

We submit that the citizen who is employed, or has an income, or some reserves, should pay his taxes uncomplainingly, willingly and promptly and thus assist his country in a time of great difficulty. More, he should make every effort to provide a little work, no matter how small or temporary the job may be, for some one out of work, and thus relieve the pressure.

We submit further that all persons on relief should be reasonable in their demands, should endeavor to get along with as little as possible, rather than demand more. And they should show their manhood and self-respect by willingly, and at all times, rendering such service in return to their fellow citizens as it may be in their power to render.

This is no time to "rock the boat," and any person who seeks to do so is not a true Canadian, but has an ulterior motive to serve, and may well be described as an enemy of the country.

Children Send Donations

A Montreal child sent $1 to the King George V. silver jubilee cancer fund with a letter saying he had washed dishes for his mother to earn the money. Another child in the Saskatchewan drought area sent $1 with a letter saying: "My aunt died of cancer; this is to help you find a cure."

To Abolish Noise

"Silent", House Will Be Shown At London Exhibition

London is to have a "house of hush", a house so quiet that in it a person may be able to hear the proverbial pin drop. There is to be a "silence" exhibition in June at which it will be possible to see—but not to hear—the following:

A silent house, with silent lift and silent locks, sound-proof ventilating windows, sound-proof doors; silenced motorcycles; a noiseless motorcar; silent vacuum cleaners; silent road drills; a silent factory room.

The exhibition, at the Science Museum, South Kensington, will be organized by the Anti-Noise League, of which Lord Horder is president.

HER ARMS AND LEGS IMMOVABLE

Ten Years With Rheumatism

To this woman it must have been like commencing to live a new life, when she began to use her arms and legs again, after they had been helpless for ten years.

"I suffered with rheumatism," she writes, "and had been bedridden since 1920. I could not move arms or legs, and had to be fed like a child. Everybody thought I should be an invalid all my life. I forced myself to fight against it, and tried a number of different things. It was Kruschen that eventually saved me, and to-day I consider it is saving my life. My condition has greatly improved, and my limbs are gradually becoming more supple. Already I can eat without assistance, and dress myself,—which I had not done for ten years."—M. H.

Two of the ingredients of Kruschen Salts are the most effective solvents of uric acid known to medical science. They swiftly dull the sharp edges of the painful crystals, then convert them into a harmless solution. Other ingredients of these Salts have a stimulating effect upon the kidneys, and assist them to expel the dissolved uric acid needles through the natural channel.

Germany's Air Force

Hitler Reports It Is Numerically Stronger Than Britain's

The London Daily Mail said Adolf Hitler had informed Sir John Simon, British foreign secretary, that Germany already has an air force numerically stronger than Great Britain's.

The Daily Mail did not reveal the source of its information but it was known Simon returned from Berlin with documents presented to him by Hitler in which, it is understood, Der Fuehrer frankly revealed the extent of Germany's armaments in the air.

The disclosure of Germany's air strength was reported to have caused grave concern to the British cabinet. Ministers held several informal meetings for a preliminary discussion on what is expected to be "a showdown" debate on the entire German situation when Capt. Anthony Eden, lord privy seal, returns from a swing through European capitals.

Gift For King George

Ruler Of Tonga Gives Ancient Turtle With History

King George is to be presented a three-hundred-year-old turtle with a history when Queen Salote, the six-foot-three ruler of Tonga, arrives in London. She is now on her way with her son, who attends an English school. In 1774 Captain Cook, famous British navigator, made a forced landing, owing to shortage of provisions, at the Pacific Islands of Tonga. His reception, to his surprise, was so warm that he renamed them the Friendly Islands, the name by which they have been known ever since. Captain Cook had a turtle, then 160 years old, on board, intended as a present for George III. He gave it as a peace offering to King Tubou, of Tonga. Queen Salote, his descendant, inherited the turtle.

Cares For Indian Wards

Recent Incident Shows Canada Is Not Neglecting Them

Canada's paternalistic care of her Indian wards was shown recently when an heroic and successful 11-day search in the dense, snow-packed northern bush of Ontario for Joseph Mann, an ailing Red man and his squaw, was revealed. Both suffering from a severe attack of influenza, the couple were taken to Timmins for treatment.

It was the kindly Rev. Canon George Prewer of Sudbury, famous Anglican missionary to the Indians, who directed the gruelling search by dog team and airplane over an area of 400 square miles. The Dominion government paid all expenses.

Federal Taxation

Increased Taxation Brings In Large Sum Of Money

Since its inception in 1931 the increased tax on tea has brought $5,658,181 into the Dominion treasury, a return tabled in the House of Commons said. Answering a series of questions on sums accruing to the treasury as a result of increased taxation since the present administration came into office, the return gave these figures:

Increase in newspaper postage, $952,251; one per cent. tax on net premiums received by insurance companies, $2,273,034; automobiles, $537,128; oranges, $4,874,138; canned fruits, $1,083,195; canned vegetables, $293,342; hops, $562,193; seeds, $878,189; cheques, $906,405; telegrams and long distance telephone calls, $2,737,810; railway sleepers, $1,129,017.

Error In Scottish Notes

Many Million Have To Be Withdrawn From Circulation

Following the detection of an error which had existed in the design in Scottish bank notes for many years, millions of them will be withdrawn from circulation. The Bank of Scotland, the National Bank of Scotland, and the British Linen Bank have been using the royal arms in the design of their notes. The royal arms are the ensigns of public authority, and can only be used by the King or government officials. It was only recently, when a question was raised as to why the Bank of England did not use one or other of the royal arms, that their use on the Scottish notes was challenged. Francis J. Grant, the Lyon King-of-Arms, who investigated the matter, found that the officials were unaware of the regulation.

Total Pension Payments

Secretary Of State Gives Amounts Paid During Year

Amounts paid by the Dominion government for pensions during the last fiscal year, according to an answer tabled in the House of Commons by Secretary of State C. H. Cahan, were:

Old age pensions, $12,313,594; Soldiers' pensions, $41,839,830; civil servants' pensions, $3,612,932; judges' pensions, $276,930, and "all other" pensions, $237,322.

The reply was made in answer to H. E. Spencer (U.F.A., Battle River).

A Native Of Asia

The parsnip that is used here is a native of Asia and Europe. We have what are called Wild Parsnips in Canada, but they are poisonous. The parsnip differs from carrots and all other vegetables in being greatly improved in taste by being left in the ground all winter in the field in which it is grown. The winter's frost seems to give it relish. But it will not keep long after being dug. It is a splendid vegetable for fattening sheep and oxen. It gives to mutton and to beef a superior flavour. The last half of March and the first ten days of April are the best for spring parsnips.

Out-Doing Jules Verne

English Winter Foresees Passenger Rocket Doing 14,000 M.P.H.

Jules Verne, who thrilled a former generation by flights of fancy into the future, and even H. G. Wells, with his tales of the planets, are outdone by Charles G. Philp in a book about the "Stratosphere and Rocket Flight," just published.

He prophesies as of "not far distant date" passenger rocket airplanes capable of doing 14,000 miles per hour and of crossing the Atlantic eventually, in even faster planes, in 60 seconds.

Passengers, it appears, will be reasonably comfortable. They will lie down hermetically sealed in hammocks. Special measures are taken to counteract trouble with breathing, for the machine is out of sight of the ground in 30 seconds and passenger's bodies become heavier than lead.

When the rocket plane approaches its destination, retarding rockets check its headlong dive. Mr. Philp's description of the flight makes one itch to take a ticket—for one's most detested neighbor.

Mr. Philp tells us that plans of the first passenger carrying rocket yet devised have been acquired by the German War Ministry. A 24-foot projectile, built after these plans, carried a passenger six miles into the air, two years ago, and landed him safely after 10½ minutes.

Other wonders predicted by Mr. Philp are an artillery shell, with a 500-mile range, directed by radio; and bomber planes cruising 30 miles above the earth and sweeping towards their targets at 3,000 miles per hour.

Long Distance Record

Telephone Call From Liner Covered Distance Of 17,887 Miles

Sir Julian Cahn, noted British cricket captain who took a British eleven to the United States and Canada 18 months ago, holds the world's record for long distance telephoning. Sir Julian's record, said wireless telephone operators of the Canadian Pacific liner Empress of Britain when the world cruise ship arrived at Hong Kong recently, was made two weeks before when the ship was at sea between Singapore, Straits Settlements, and Bankok.

Atmospherics prevented the reception of a call from the Empress of Britain to Nottingham, England, by the London receiving terminal. But the call was successfully completed by routing it direct from the ship to San Francisco, overland from there to New York, and by beam wireless to England.

At the time Sir Julian talked he was seven hours ahead of London time. The San Francisco control station was nine hours behind London and New York, of course, three hours ahead of the Pacific station. Rough computation shows a distance of 17,887 miles for the conversation between the Empress of Britain and London off which 9,275 miles was a direct connection between the ship and San Francisco. Direct, the voice would have travelled only 7,950 miles.

Records Made Years Ago

Carry Voice Of Jenny Lind But Cannot Be Found

Somewhere in Sweden or Denmark the "voice" of Jenny Lind, the Swedish nightingale is believed to lie forgotten. Possibly it is in an attic or a storehouse. The famous singer, it has been revealed, made records in Paris in 1887, shortly after the first phonograph was put on the market. The records were of the old cylinder type. After Jenny Lind's death, it is believed, they were sent either to Stockholm or Copenhagen. A Swedish newspaper is appealing to its readers to search their attics, old trunks and boxes in case they may possess the precious records without knowing it.

A "Rainbow Hill," the soil of which is composed of six bright colors, has been found at Ladysmith, Natal.

Farmers who want to paint their homes now collect some of the clay, which is dried, powdered, and later mixed with water or oil. They can choose from red, pink, cream, green, brown and yellow. Almost every stone in the vicinity is dyed blood-red and looks as if it had been coated with red oil paint.

Delving Into The Past To Piece Together The Story Of The Lost People Of England

Little by little, the patient toil of the archaeologist is piecing together the strong story of the lost peoples of England. How they lived and worked; their dwellings; the gods they worshipped in those far off days when Rome was young—slowly, these things are again emerging into the light.

Yet it is a story with many missing chapters still. Here and there, hard by some mysterious monolith or earthwork, excavations reveal concrete evidence of a civilization that grew and died centuries before recorded history. But who the peoples were, how and why they disappeared, no man can say with any certainty.

Almost half-way in the train journey between Plymouth and London, the Canadian visitor will note hillsides scarred with what appear to be the irregular lines of old entrenchments. Round the hills they run, interconnecting in obvious design. Occasionally, earthworks rise above plain and rising land. Stone circles add their touch of mystery. They are part of a great system linked by green roads which traversed England from sea to sea long before Britain heard the tramp of Roman legions or the first Celt crossed the narrow sea from Gaul.

Who dwell there and why were these great earthworks needed? The usual explanation is that they were built for defence. But defence against whom? The earthworks at Maiden Castle in Dorset cover five miles. What peoples in those dim days could have needed such elaborate defence? What peoples were so numerous as to hope to carry them by assault?

Dr. R. E. M. Wheeler, who has been conducting excavations at Maiden Castle, says that the multiple defences there imply a large population. In one pit, more than 4,000 sling stones were found. There were loom weights cut from chalk, innumerable bone arrowheads, even a piece of carbonized wheat bread.

Who were these people who came and went and left no history?

Archaeology has many theories but so far no concrete fact.

They are the lost peoples of England.

Depends Largely On Health

No Hard And Fast Rule For Reaching Century Mark

These centenarians get more confusing every day.

A woman in Mitchell, Ontario, who is 101 rises at half past four every morning and attributes her long life to early rising.

No doubt she goes to bed early and has her eight hours, but what's the use of living to 100 if one goes to bed early in the evening and gets up in the middle of the night?

Another centenarian will say that the secret of long life is to not get up early.

One will say that long life is only attained by total abstinence and no smoking. Yet there are plenty of centenarians who will claim that a "nightcap" and plenty of good tobacco kept them in perfect health.

So there can be no hard and fast rule for reaching the 100th year. What suits one person does not suit another. If total abstinence from alcohol and tobacco are the secrets, then there are thousands of people in Ontario who ought to live to 100 but won't.

Largely it depends primarily on a sound constitution, moderation in eating and drinking, plenty of fresh air and exercise—and freedom from organic ailments and worry.—St. Thomas Times-Journal.

New Signalling System

A new signalling system, with photo-electric "eye" apparatus and lookout screens for signal boxes, is being considered in London for the four main-line railways. Trains miles away will be made visible on the screens in thick fog or darkness, and signalmen will be able to "look in" at approaching traffic. All four main groups may be converted to the new system in three years.

Germany Discards Time Clock

Punching the clock when reporting for work is being abolished in Germany as a system that is "contrary to the spirit of the new era and the honor of the laborer." It is being replaced with a joint assembly before work, or a roll-call, or both. In some plants this joint assembly is turned into a ceremonial act at least once a month.

Newspapers Widely Read

Have No Cause To Be Afraid Of Radio

We are getting to be unduly afraid of the radio. When a statesman with a cause or an axe goes on the air he modestly claims 20,000,000 listeners and upwards. The odd thing is that few rise to question his figures. Are there not 18,000,000 homes with radios in the country? Are there not 4.1 persons per family? Doesn't this make something like 75,000,000 listeners hanging on the orator's every word?

But no one really knows how many of the nation's radios are tuned in on this particular earthshaking event. We know the millions of radios that are not attuned: the dials turned to the dance music programs, the comedians, the face creams, the shaving soaps, the folksongs, the cigarettes, the rumbas. No doubt, when you have made all deductions, like an income-tax statement, there will still be an impressive remainder. A national figure over the radio may address perhaps five million listeners.

But his speech on the front page of the papers next day will have 35,000,000 readers.—New York Times.

GARDENING

Gordon L. Smith

Shapes And Sizes

Annual flowers are classified under various heads in the seed catalogues. Attention must be paid, of course, to time of blooming and color. Height should also be noted as a medium sized plant hidden by some bushy stocks or tall Cosmos, will be "born to blush unseen". But these are only the most elemental points which every gardener of a few years experience now notes automatically. There are other and finer distinctions. Certain shades blend well together and often a whole bed will be selected with this blending in mind. Of course for this sort of thing, all the plants must bloom during the same period. Fragrance should be taken into account, as there are some spicy things like Evening Scented Stock, Nicotina, Mignonette, Sweet Sultan and Verbena, which while rather plain as plants, fill the whole garden with a delightful odor, more especially in the evening. In shaded quarters, tuberous rooted Begonias, Pansies, and wild flowers will do well. In fact, they prefer this location to any other. In partial shade, Clarkia, Annual Larkspur, Lupine, Nicotina, Phlox, and Verbena should be grown. On poor soil, Portulaca is a favorite as well as Alyssum, Sweet-scented Stocks, Linum, Calendula, Calliopsis, Sunflowers, Schizanthus, Salpiglossis, Marigolds, Petunias, and many others. These will also successfully resist dry weather. For cutting purposes, there is a long list to choose from but it should include Gypsophila (Baby's Breath) useful for making up bouquets. There are several hardy annuals which can be picked with long stems just before the bloom opens and dried for winter bouquets. These include the Straw Flower, Statice, Acroclinium, Rhodanthe and others.

Fruit For The Garden

A summer apple like Yellow Transparent, Astrachan or Melba should be chosen for dessert purposes, or Duchess for cooking; for fall, Wealthy; for early winter the McIntosh or Delicious; and for late winter, the Northern Spy. In the Prairie Provinces or Northern Quebec and Ontario, there are some new hardy types as well as good crab apples available. Among sweet cherries, Windsor, Bing and Tartarian are recommended while Montmorency and Early Richmond are standards of the other type. Clapp's Favorite is one of the best pears, coming very early, while Bartlett is a good later sort. Plums are grown almost anywhere in Canada, as well as currants, raspberries, strawberries, blackcaps, thimble berries, loganberries, and gooseberries. Grapes are fairly hardy, and among the best are the Lindley.

Many Farms Approved

As a result of the first year's operation of the Grade A1 policy of the Dominion Department of Agriculture for eggs, 540 farms have been approved, upwards of 50,000 cases marketed, and a premium of approximately $90,000 returned to the producers. Grade A1 eggs are produced on farms approved by the Dominion Minister of Agriculture.

Valuable To Gardeners

An ordinary toad, fully matured and sound in wind and limb, is worth twenty dollars to a gardener, according to Prof. A. F. Coventry of the University of Toronto. He does not guarantee that such a price can be obtained, but gives the assurance that every toad has a value not always recognized as an insect destroyer.

Sees No Real Danger

British Editor Finds Strong Anti-War Feeling Everywhere

"There is no real danger of a European war for at least eight or nine years—and, if we have not found means of doing away with it by that time, we will deserve one."

Thus Vernon Bartlett, Foreign Editor of the London News Chronicle, editor of the magazine World, and late chief commentator for the British Broadcasting Corporation, summed up the present state of affairs in Europe, when he addressed a large audience in Convocation Hall, Toronto.

"Everywhere I go I find a strong anti-war feeling," declared Mr. Bartlett. "There has been no belief in any country I have been in that war would better matters any."

Adolph Hitler himself did not want war.

"Germany knows that she has far fewer friends to-day than she possessed in 1914," he continued. "I do not think that she would risk the folly of plunging Europe into another war. There are various other highly important reasons. For one thing, Germany is very vulnerable from the air, and aircraft will play a major part in the next conflict."

A Super Gasoline Engine

Builders Afraid It May Blow Itself To Bits

A new gasoline engine, which may revolutionize air transport and make motoring cheaper, has been invented by an English inventor.

It will have its first test in a reinforced concrete hut, as the builders of the engine believe it will develop such colossal power that it may blow itself to bits.

The inventor has disclosed that the engine is a gasoline turbine, the subject of countless unsuccessful experiments during the past 30 years. Experts who examined the plans declare that if the engine proves only 10 per cent. efficient it will develop as much power as a similar sized gasoline engine and will cost considerably less to build.

War Tank Sold As Scrap

Northampton's tank—a war relic—may make its re-appearance in the form of razor blades soon. The offer of a Sheffield firm to dispose of the trophy for £30 has been accepted by the Town Council. Its cost during the war days would be about £5,000.

Bees that cannot see the color red can, however, see color at the ultra-violet end of the spectrum invisible to man.

The only substitute found so far for gasoline is shoe leather.

The SNAPSHOT GUILD

SPRING LIGHTNING

Lightning and moonlight pictures are unusual and fascinating and you can take them with any kind of a camera.

April showers not only bring May flowers but night-time electrical storms as well. And there's your chance for sensational lightning pictures.

With the dark, clouded skies the sharp ribbons of lightning spread in fantastic, fascinating flashes and when caught by the camera, the resulting picture is really something to talk about and adds variety and interest to your snapshot album.

There is no trick involved in taking lightning pictures. In fact, it's quite simple. If it is raining during the time the lightning is weaving its webs of flashes across the sky, and you don't want to get wet, take your pictures from the inside through an open window. Place the camera on a tripod or something solid at the open window and point it in the direction of the last few flashes. Set your shutter at "time", using the largest diaphragm opening or "stop."

You may close the shutter after the first flash or leave it open for the registering of several flashes. Of course, if you leave the shutter open for many flashes, you will get a fantastic conglomeration of ribbons of light but not a true picture of a single flash. However, it will be unusual, to say the least, and well worth adding to your collection of "freaks."

If it is an honest-to-goodness storm, it will pay you in self satisfaction to take several pictures, for the more brilliant the flashes and the more ribbons of light zigzagging through the dark skies, the greater the chances for a really spectacular picture.

The only form of lightning that does not register satisfactorily is sheet lightning. It merely uniformly illuminates a broad expanse of sky. With this kind of lightning, however, interesting silhouettes of trees and buildings can be secured.

And while discussing Dame Nature's "lightning plant," pictures by moonlight should not be overlooked.

Moonlight will serve to make pictures just as sunlight does, but as it is a great many times weaker than sunlight, exposures must be increased considerably. Perhaps the simplest way to calculate a moonlight exposure is to give 25 minutes for each 1:100 second exposure that would be given the same scene by sunlight.

For example, the exposure in bright sunlight for a landscape with a dark-toned object in the immediate foreground, would be 1/25 of a second with stop f.11 or U.S.8. Then the exposure by the light of a full moon would be 100 minutes with the same stop. This could be cut down to 50 minutes with stop f.8 or U.S.4. For a landscape without a dark-toned object in the immediate foreground about 25 minutes with f.8 or U.S.4 would be ample, and for distant landscapes the exposure can be from 10 to 15 minutes.

If a daylight effect is desired, the exposure must be multiplied by four, and this applies only to nights when the sky is clear and the moon is full.

With a single lens and all fixed focus cameras, use the largest stop and double the exposures given above.

So—let the sky light your way to out-of-the-ordinary pictures.

JOHN VAN GUILDER.

Precautionary Measures Needed In Selecting Field Crops To Be Grown In Dry Areas In West

Red Clover Always Popular

Seed Supply Is Not As Large This Year

Red clover is always in popular demand in Canada and promises to be in more than average demand this spring owing to the unusual shortage and high price of alsike and timothy seed. According to the Seed Branch, Dominion Department of Agriculture the red clover seed supply is not as large as in most years. Last year's total production in Canada was about two and one-half million pounds, and with the half million pounds or so of imported English red clover seed there will be available for seeding in Canada this spring about three million pounds. The normal annual Canadian consumption is more than this being between four and five million pounds.

The continued low purchasing power of farmers will of course have an effect in reducing seed purchases, but the relatively low price for red clover seed, as compared with alsike and timothy, will probably increase the preference for red to the extent that the total supplies of red clover seed available will likely all be needed before the season is over.

Most of last year's red clover seed crop in Canada was grown in Eastern Ontario and Quebec, which is fortunate from the standpoint of seed hardness and purity. The greater part of this seed is now in the hands of the seed houses for resale, but considerable quantities are still held by the growers in the Plantagenet area in Eastern Ontario and in the Montreal district in Quebec.

Further information as to sources of supply may be obtained from the Seed Branch, Dominion Department of Agriculture, Ottawa.

Made Aviation History

'Plane That Once Commanded Headlines Now Carrying Fish

Lazily winging its way, a huge aeroplane of the monoplane type, may be seen daily plying a scheduled fish run between Cheecham, Alberta, 200 miles north of Edmonton, and the numerous lakes in the northland. Once it commanded newspaper headlines and played a part in making aviation history.

With Bernt Balchen and Floyd Bennett at the controls, the big ship, in 1928, rescued Baron Gunther von Huenfeld, Captain James Fitzmaurice and Captain Hermann Koehl, forced down on the first east-west trans-Atlantic flight, on lonely Greenly Island, off the rockbound coast of Labrador.

The crew of the Bremen hopped off from Ireland on April 12. Their gasoline supply became exhausted after a 2,125-mile flight across the ocean. Almost within flying reach of New York, their objective, they were forced to land. Balchen and Bennett, in response to an SOS, rescued them from the rocky island in the Straits of Belle Isle where they had smashed their aeroplane.

Later, the big monoplane carried the mother of Charles A. Lindbergh from Mexico City to New York when the flying colonel was engaged in a North and South American flight. For three years the big, all-metal ship loaded with sight-seers, was a familiar sight over Niagara Falls. To-day, it is relegated to the commonplace task of hauling fish to market from the lakes in Northern Alberta.

The Modern Farmer

Requires Skill And Knowledge To Make Success Of Job

There is no question that the farmer's occupation is a skilled one. Many city dwellers have little idea of the amount of skill and detailed knowledge necessary for success in farming. This skill must take several forms. There is the manual dexterity and mechanical sense needed for operating both ordinary and modern farm machinery, and the knowledge required in dealing with horses and stock. And above all there is the judgment which decides the right moment to carry out this or that operation on any particular area of soil, and the managerial capacity to arrange operations and materials efficiently. The degree of forethought and skill demanded is much higher than is expected of the ordinary recipient of the basic wage for unskilled labour.—From the report of the Royal Commission on the wheat industry in Australia.

The scarcity of feed crops during the past season became more serious when it decreased the efficiency of farm horse power at the very time that power was urgently needed to enable return to more normal conditions.

Experiments and observations at the Dominion Experimental Station, Swift Current, Saskatchewan, indicate that precautionary measures in the future should include growing those crops which are now known to be more certain of production. Annual feed crops offer more security in most cases, when grown on summer-fallowed land.

Banner oats grown on summer-fallowed land at the Dominion Experimental Station, Swift Current, during the past thirteen years have never failed to produce reasonably good crops of fodder. Grasses and legumes have failed to provide stands in dry season. When established in a favourable location or in seasons of good rainfall, they have produced fair yields. Due to failures in dry seasons, grasses and legumes grown in definite rotations have produced 40 to 60 per cent. less fodder than oat hay grown on summer-fallow.

When grasses and legumes are to be grown, they should be sown on land that is likely to be favoured with more than the average amount of soil moisture, such as can be supplied by run-off water by natural or artificial means. Tests indicate that seeding may be done in early spring or in June, also in the late fall in some districts. At the same time consideration should be given to prevailing soil moisture and seasonal conditions. The seed should be sown shallowly on a firm, level seed-bed.

Annual fodders, such as cereal crops cut in the late milk or early dough stage, are more adaptable to dry farming conditions. The seeds are large and may be planted deeply and leave the soil in a lumpy condition to prevent soil drifting. Wheat is a valuable feed for all classes of livestock either as fodder or grain. Prolific spring rye, Banner oats and Colsees barley are also good annual hay crops. When grain crops are sown in combination for hay purposes the yield and palatability are likely to be improved. Fall rye is very useful as an early maturing hay crop or as a supplementary pasture crop. Fall rye and Banner oats sown 35 pounds each per acre at any time from early spring to June 30, provide excellent annual pasture.—H. J. Kemp, Dominion Experimental Station, Swift Current, Sask.

Baking Monster Pie

Yorkshire Village Aims To Beat Two Former Records

Up in Denby Dale, in Yorkshire, England, they have, for the past two centuries, always baked a special, gigantic monster pie mark an event of national rejoicing. And, this year, with the Royal Jubilee to be celebrated, they have decided to go the limit, and bake a pie bigger and better than has ever been baked before. Which means something, when two past records are considered. One pie, baked during the last century, took 31 horses to pull it on to the fair grounds where it was cut. Another pie, baked in 1923, was cut into 20,000 portions which were sold in aid of a hospital. Now, if this year's pie is going to beat all records, how many horses will be needed to pull it, and how many pieces will be cut from it?
